

BURNS'S CHICKEN STEW GOT HIM IN ANOTHER OVER HIS NEW COOK

Found Her After Mrs Burns
Quit Home in a Huff, but His Wife Came Back.

Mrs. Anna Kelley of One Hundred and Twenty-second street and Seventh avenue, walked into a storm of Jersey journalism yesterday when she faced Judge Queen in the Second Criminal Court, Jersey City. Her accuser was Mrs. Michael Burns of No. 417 Grove street, across the river.

Mrs. Burns was the maddest woman that ever brewed into a court room. She levelled a long finger at Mrs. Kelley and accused her of being an interloper in her house.

"I found the creature asleep in my own bed," said Mrs. Burns. "There was nothing wrong," protested Kelley with a look of fear. "Me and the old woman had a row yesterday morning and I met this lady from New York. She said she was hungry. I told her I had a chicken stew all but hot in the kitchen, and if she would cook it I would share it with her. She took me up a minute and cooked the stew and we ate it. She said she was tired and I left her. In the afternoon the old woman comes back home and ramps up to her room and finds Mrs. Kelley. She jumps and runs for a cop."

"Thirty days in jail for Mrs. Kelley," said the judge.

"But I've got a cat and a dog at home waiting for me," protested Mrs. Kelley. "They must be fed. They are locked in the flat. I shall appeal to Mayor Gaynor. He is a friend of dumb animals. He had a dog once—Spot."

Judge Queen turned to Michael Burns. "What am I to do with you?" he asked.

"Don't bother about that," replied Burns as he hooked a finger over toward his glowering spouse. "She'll attend to me all right."

Mrs. Burns took her husband in custody.

NOTES OF THE THEATRES.

Martin Beck's Palace at Broadway and Forty-seventh street will open as an English music hall Monday with Frank Thompson, son of Denman Thompson, the manager.

Mr. Herbert Beerbaum Tree is not coming for a Shakespeare season here this fall, he stated last night. He cannot let his London house go during his absence.

"Roadside," originally produced at the old Wallace in 1911, will be revived by William A. Brady, April 7, at the Lyric with Charles Cherry in the role of Lester Wallace played, and Elsie Ferguson as Rose.

The Talkies are to have surprise speeches. Miss Harriet May Mills, Mrs. Raymond Brown, Miss Elizabeth Freeman, Mrs. James Lee, Laidlaw and Mrs. John Rodgers Jr. have posed for the films at the Edison studios.

"Mary Magdalene," Maeterlinck's

new play, produced at Nice last night, created a profound impression, the cables say. Georgette Leblanc, Mrs. Maeterlinck, was the Mary. Christ is heard in prayer. The critics call the play Maeterlinck's best.

Ethel Barrymore says her appearance in "The Twelve Pound Look" at Proctor's Fifth Avenue the week after next will be her last in vaudeville.

"The Argyle Case" reaches its 100th performance at the Criterion to-night. Heinrich Reinhardt, the composer, is coming next week to see his "Purple Road," which opens at the Liberty Monday.

Under the direction of R. H. Burnside, the newspaper men are quietly rehearsing at the Friars' Club their "Julius Caesar" upon which actors are to act as critics at the 55th benefit.

As the result of a dare, Henrietta Crooman and Douglas Fairbanks will play minor roles in "The Ghost Breaker" Saturday afternoon.

Bertha Kalich, who recently underwent an operation, is convalescing at Lakewood, N. J., and as soon as she is well will produce Edward Eugene Ritter's "Her Son's Wife."

De Wolf Hopper, who will be seen in "The Beggar Student," will be welcomed back to Broadway by the Friars at a dinner Sunday night at the Hotel Astor.

Gail Kane will play Mrs. de Brionne and Mario Marjoni the part of Clavac in the revival of "Divorçons."

Anna Chandler, who starred in "Louisiana Lou," has returned to vaudeville, and with her brother Gus will be at the Bronx next week.

SKIN TROUBLE BEGAN AS RASH

Legs All Sore and Broken Out.
Itched Most at Night. Just Like
Raw Flesh. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Month Legs
Were Entirely Better.

200 14th St., Brooklyn, N. Y. My legs were all sore and broken out. My trouble began as a rash and itched most at night and then began to get all over me. It looked just like raw flesh all over my legs. Some nights I could not sleep with it; my clothing stuck to it. Then I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I started bathing my legs on nights with Cuticura Soap and then rubbing the Cuticura Ointment on and in two weeks I felt free. In a month my legs were entirely better." (Signed) J. Cannon, June 6, 1912.
